

APPENDIX F: Population and Employment Forecasts

For Connecting Communities, the NJTPA updated the region's 2050 population, households, and employment forecasts. These forecasts were produced in consultation with regional, state, county and municipal partners and using the NJTPA's Demographic and Employment Forecasting Model (DEFM) to assist in allocating county level forecasts to the local level.

County Forecasts

As in prior LRTP cycles, in the interest of interagency coordination and consistency, the NJTPA partnered with the New York Metropolitan Transportation Council (NYMTC) and other agencies to develop regional and county level forecasts. In June 2024, NYMTC's consultant-supported effort yielded forecasts of population, households, and employment for the current LRTP. These forecasts were drawn largely from the previous set (developed for the 2021 LRTP), re-benchmarked to updated population and employment data.

Historically, regional forecasts have relied on national macroeconomic projections applied in the context of New York/New Jersey/Connecticut trends and included demographic patterns of birth rates, migration and life expectancies. The substantial uncertainty due to the COVID-19 pandemic led to the decision to maintain prior assumptions about regional growth patterns, rather than to generate completely new forecasts.

This approach involved straightforward adjustments of the earlier forecasts. Actual 2020 and 2022 employment data showed that the prior forecasts had underpredicted the pandemic drops but also underpredicted the rebound. 2020 census population numbers also were generally higher than expected. The forecasts for the current LRTP were estimated by shifting the prior forecasts to the new observed baseline years while maintaining the previously identified amounts of growth for future years (out to 2050).

Municipal and Traffic Analysis Zone Forecasts

The agreed upon regional and county forecasts were disaggregated by the NJTPA to more local – municipal and traffic analysis zone (TAZ) – levels by using the DEFM and a range of GIS data. These are used for a variety of planning studies, including key analyses such as air quality conformity determination.

The variables that were used for the local allocation of growth in the region included historical trends, local land use and expected projects, vacant land, densities, and highway and transit accessibility. The NJTPA consulted with subregional and partner agencies to include appropriate data and to assess the forecast results.

The following tables show the NJTPA's established 2050 population, households, and payroll employment forecasts by county and municipality.
